

James M. Dunleavy, PT, DPT, MS

APTA spokesman James M. Dunleavy is administrative director of Rehabilitation Services at Trinitas Regional Medical Center in Elizabeth, New Jersey. He also serves as adjunct faculty in the Transitional Doctor of Physical Therapy Program at Rutgers University. As an active member of APTA, he founded the association's Academy of Acute Care Physical Therapy and served as its president for 5 years. He has held various volunteer positions within the association, including serving as a director on the APTA Board of Directors. Dunleavy also has held many volunteer leadership positions on APTA's New York Chapter Board of Directors, including treasurer, district chair, district director, and president. In 2005 he received APTA's Lucy Blair Service Award. He was the first recipient of APTA's Acute Care Section

Leadership Award, now named after him. He received a bachelor's degree in education from Manhattan College, a master's degree in physical therapy from Columbia University, and a doctor of physical therapy degree from Massachusetts General Hospital Institute of Health Professions.