

APTA Dues and Membership and Affiliate Qualifications

BOD Y12-20-02-01 [Initial] [Policy]

I. Membership Dues, Incentives, and Models

As provided in the Bylaws of the American Physical Therapy Association, the APTA Board of Directors has the authority to establish association dues. Association dues are defined as the dues required to be a member of APTA national and do not include component dues. The process by which dues are established, defined, and implemented is described herein.

- A. The APTA Finance and Audit Committee shall review annually the association dues amounts for all membership categories and make recommended adjustments to the Board. The Board's action will be included in the minutes of its meeting.
- B. The Board may offer time-limited incentives in the form of reduced rates for association dues to recruit, retain, and engage membership.
- C. The Board may establish membership models for targeted groups or specific audiences to recruit, retain, and engage membership. Models may include organizational discounts and/or bundling of specific products and services with association dues.
- D. All association dues and component dues, dues incentive programs, and membership models shall be outlined in the association's operational documents and published on the association's website.
- E. The term of membership is for a 12-month period based on the original join date and subsequent anniversary dates. The rights, privileges, and obligations of membership shall be for the membership term. Membership dues may be paid at the beginning of the membership term or in monthly installments over the term.
- F. On a one-time-only basis, a member may pay for fewer than 12 months of membership in order to change the due date for all future payments of association dues and component dues. The member must simultaneously pay association dues and component dues for the same number of months.

Proviso: During the 2021 calendar year, a phase-in plan shall be implemented to convert the current Easy Pay Plan from four installments to twelve monthly installments.

II. Waiver of Dues

The Secretary, on behalf of the Board, may waive an eligible member's association dues and component dues, in whole or in part, for extenuating circumstances. For this purpose, extenuating circumstances include, but are not limited to, situations involving members who have experienced natural disasters; substantial loss of total household income due to reasons outside the member's control; a serious illness; the death or incapacitation of an immediate family member (spouse, domestic partner, children, and parents) or any other family member (including a significant other) that lives in the household; or active duty deployment.

A member who wishes to apply for a waiver is required to contact the APTA Membership Department. Chapter presidents may identify members within their chapters who are eligible to apply for a waiver, and they may ask the Secretary to consider waiver applications from such members. Waivers granted by the Secretary shall be limited to one year of dues. Requests for consecutive years' waivers will be considered only for those who have experienced a serious illness, a long-term deployment, or have extenuating circumstances that warrant discounts over consecutive years. Waivers shall cover association and chapter dues and may cover section dues. The Secretary or APTA staff on their behalf will inform the chapter president, and if applicable, the section president(s) when waivers are granted.

The Secretary shall report all waivers to the Board on an annual basis. Reports to the Board shall identify the total number of dues waivers granted and the durations of the waivers. Names of members granted dues waivers will be provided orally only, if requested by the Board.

This model seeks to engage early-career members and help them transition from the student rate to the full member rate. The Early-Career Dues Model affords early-career members more time to engage with APTA by offering discounted dues rates over the first years of their career, provided the individual is an APTA member in good standing at the time of graduation from a physical therapist or physical therapist assistant program.

V. APTA Nonmember Affiliate

APTA offers a nonmember affiliate option for individuals who are not eligible for APTA membership, to provide access to association information, products, services, and meetings, and to inform and connect affiliates to APTA for collaboration within and beyond the physical therapy profession.

Examples may include, but are not limited to:

- Faculty teaching in a physical therapy education program;
- International physiotherapists or physiotherapist assistants practicing outside of the United States;
- Rehabilitation providers (e.g., physicians, occupational therapists, speech-language pathologists, respiratory therapists) who are part of a rehabilitation team in a hospital or other practice setting; and
- Others who demonstrate an identified connection with the profession and/or association as determined by APTA or a specific component.

Provisions: Individuals who are nonmember affiliates are precluded from identifying themselves as members of APTA or any of its components. Affiliate fees, services, and benefits shall be provided consistent with association positions, standards, guidelines, policies, and procedures.

APTA components may voluntarily offer nonmember affiliate options that are in addition to the national association nonmember benefits or options.

When offering a nonmember affiliate option, APTA and each component will determine:

- Criteria to participate in the program in compliance with APTA bylaws and policies;
- Benefits to individual affiliates;
