Lisa VanHoose, PT, PhD, MPH, FAPTA

Fellow of the American Academy of Physical Therapy

Board Certified Clinical Specialist in Oncologic Physical Therapy

University of Louisiana Monroe Professor and Program Director

Executive Summary

For more than 25 years, I have worked as a clinician, educator, researcher, and advocate always with a focus on building bridges so that physical therapy reaches every community. From leading the founding of the University of Louisiana Monroe DPT program to serving as President of APTA Oncology and guiding organizations such as the Ujima Foundation and Physical Therapy Learning Institute, I have shown that I can bring people together, listen deeply, and lead boldly toward change.

My career has been dedicated to transforming challenges into opportunities. Whether addressing health disparities in cancer rehabilitation, strengthening the pathway for a physical therapist workforce, or advancing rural access to care, I have championed innovation that reflects the values of our profession. Recognized as both a Catherine Worthingham Fellow and recipient of APTA's Societal Impact Award, I bring not only experience, but also the trust of peers who know that my leadership is rooted in action and accountability.
