ABOUT THE SECTION

Every PT and PTA is an educator. The Academy of Physical Therapy Education (APTE) is a point of contact for those interested in both patient and professional education, and is a mechanism for networking and professional development. APTE is committed to meeting the needs of those concerned with progress, growth, and development of education throughout their career in physical therapy.

APTE members recognize that education in physical therapy is a multifaceted process, including preprofessional training, postprofessional training, and educational interventions, and implemented in a variety of learning environments. APTE supports these efforts through communication among our members and professional community, action within our association and educational environments, and investigation and scholarship related to education in physical therapy.
